The freedom you experience when travelling is now available on your supply connections too.

Smart Supply – the modular supply system for caravans and recreational vehicles sets new standards in mobile connection technology: flexible, expandable and designed for your adventure.

Thanks to the freely combinable functional modules, you can configure the electricity, water and gas connections exactly as you wish – whether as part of the initial installation or for a later retrofit. This is because the double housing makes it very easy to add a second module at a later date.

Ideal for everyone who's already thinking about tomorrow today.
